

Todd Morgan

Todd Morgan is a Restaurateur and Managing Partner of the Maple Leaf Tavern (Toronto) and PORT Restaurant (Pickering). Born and raised in Toronto, Todd's modest introduction to the restaurant business began in university. Realizing his chosen degree in Civil Engineering was a poor fit to his personality and passions, he switched to a Bachelor of Commerce in Hospitality and Tourism Management at Ryerson. To make ends meet while studying, he worked as part of the concierge team at Toronto's Eaton Centre and later at the Royal York as a liveried doorman, giving him first-hand experience on hospitality's front lines.

On graduating, he made the move west to Whistler, BC. There, he found work at a range of locations including the Delta Hotel, fine dining restaurant La Rua and as banquet captain at Whistler's Convention Centre. He joined Earl's, the Vancouver-based premium-casual restaurant success story that now operates across Canada and the U.S., in 2004. Morgan quickly rose through the ranks from server to night leader. Selected to be part of Earl's expansion into Ontario, Morgan ultimately returned home to open PORT in Pickering.

PORT is recognized as being one of the top destinations in the Eastern GTA, has been a proud Ocean Wise Partner since 2008 and an original participant with FeastON. Morgan has opened his second restaurant, Maple Leaf Tavern, in Toronto's Leslieville neighbourhood in 2016 and is currently working on a Certificate in Project Management. When Todd is not busy with his wife and two young children, he loves to snowboard.
